Pepo Studios

Original Pop-Up Cards

A free printable gift from pepostudios.au

Mr. Pepo · The Dragon · Luna · Sakura

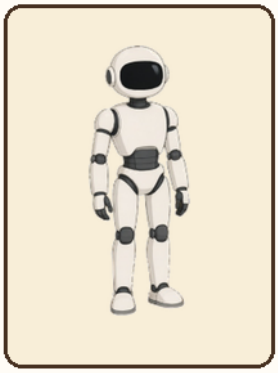

Print this at home. Make the cards. Share them. Mr. Pepo can make everything he needs — and these four cards are his gift to you. Every design and every step here is original to Pepo Studios. Nothing is copied from anyone else's book.

Mr. Pepo

Dragon

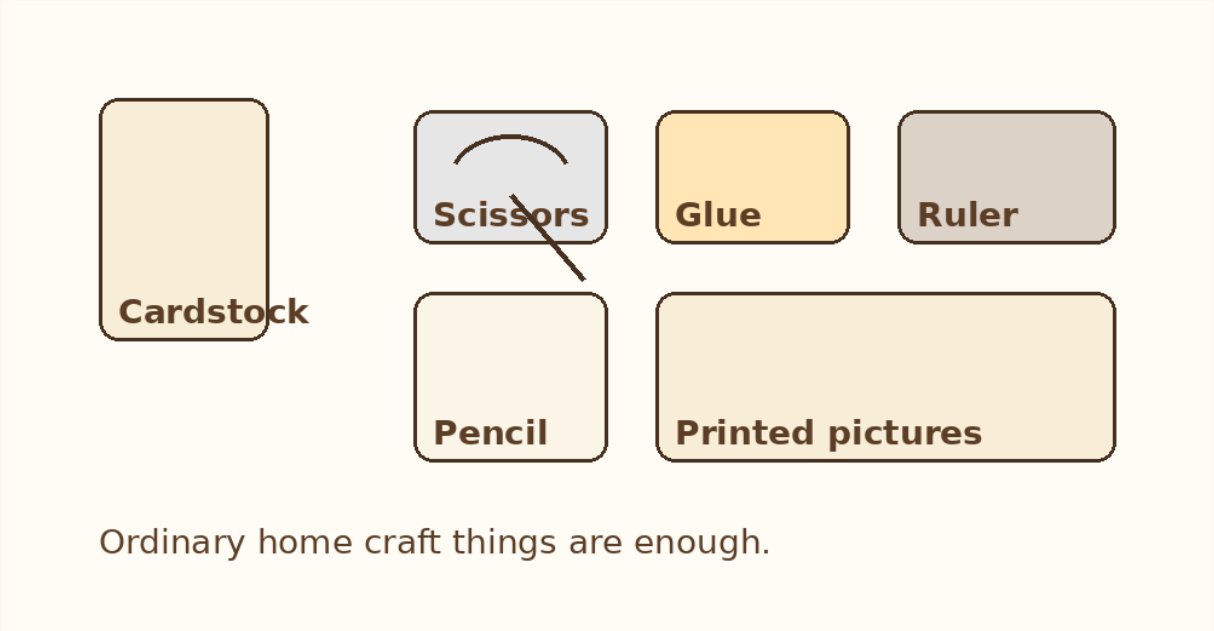

Luna

Sakura

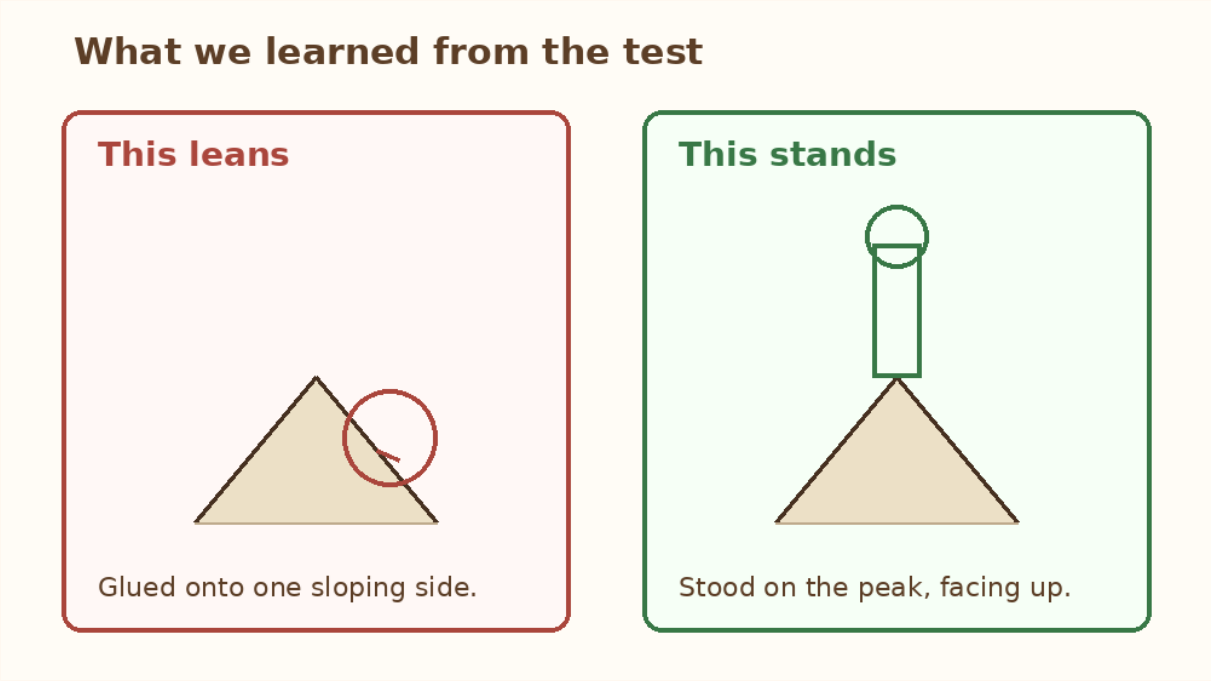

What you need

Two or more sheets of cream or white cardstock (ordinary printer card is fine). Extra card for tent pieces, flat bases, and character cut-outs. Scissors, a glue stick or white craft glue, a ruler, and a pencil. Print the character pictures from this booklet (or from pepostudios.au), or draw your own versions of Mr. Pepo, the dragon, Luna, and Sakura.

How our V-fold tent works

Think of a little paper tent sitting in the middle of an open card. When you open the card, the tent rises. The top of the tent is the peak, or ridge. A figure that stands on that peak — or on a small flat base glued on that peak — stands up straight. A figure glued onto one sloping wall of the tent will lean. We tested both. Stand on the peak or the flat base. Do not glue to a sloping wall.

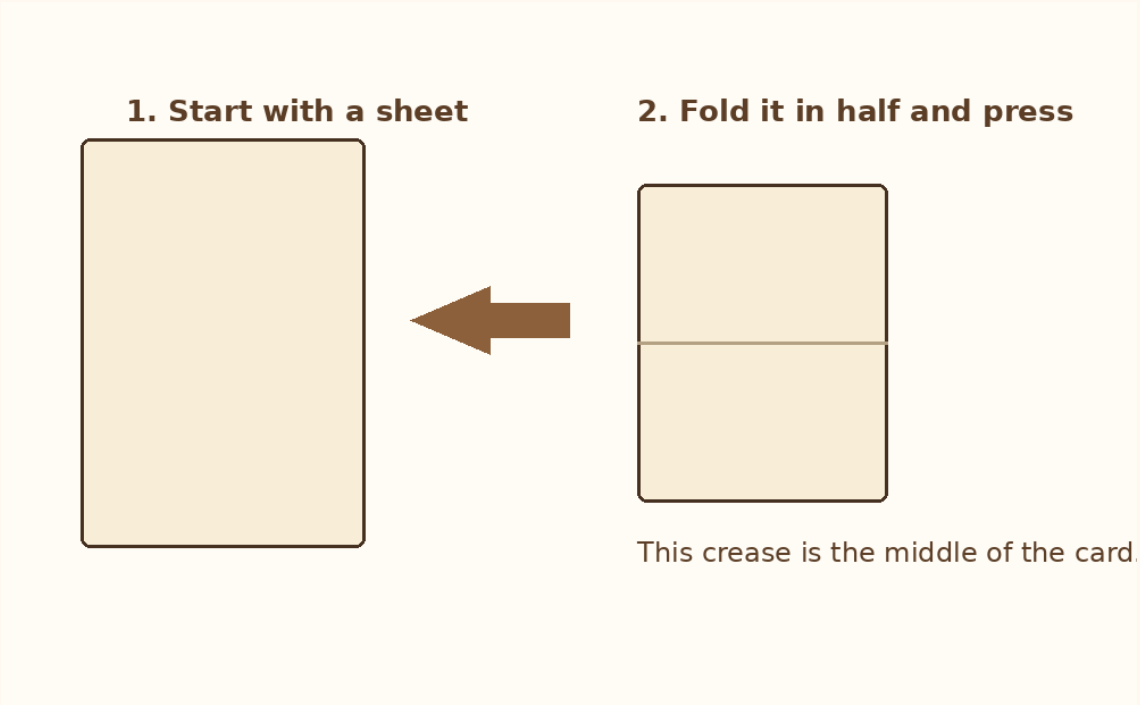

Left: glued to a sloping side, so it leans. Right: stood on the peak, so it stands.

Card one — Mr. Pepo

Finished look: a cream card that opens almost flat, a small paper tent in the middle, and Mr. Pepo standing straight on the peak. He wears his brown work shirt and shorts, and he points up with a small lightbulb above his finger — because he can make whatever he needs.

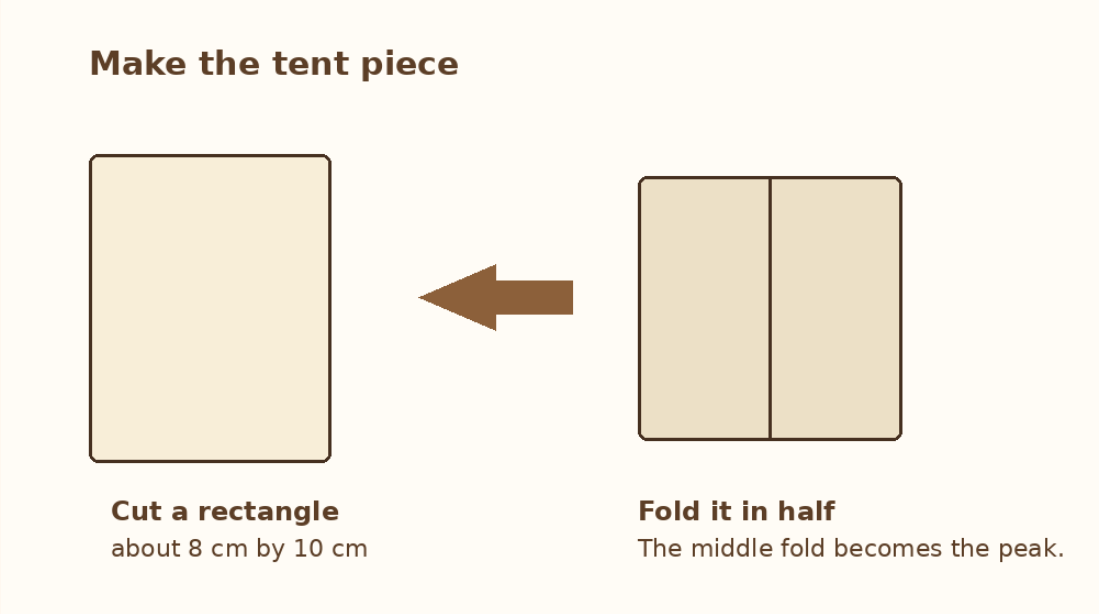

1. Fold the card.

Take one sheet of cardstock. Fold it in half and press the crease firmly. If you start with A4, you will get a card about the size of a book page when it is closed.

2. Make the tent.

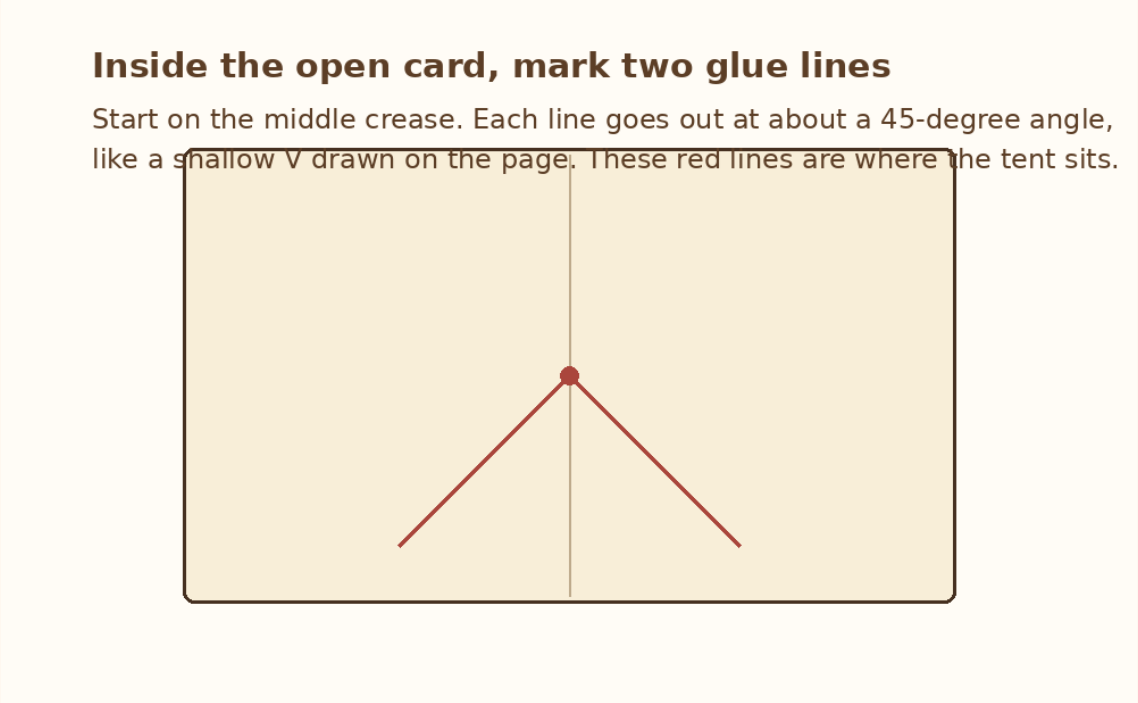

Cut a rectangle of cardstock about 8 cm by 10 cm. Fold it in half so you have a tent piece. The middle fold will become the peak.

Card one — Mr. Pepo, continued

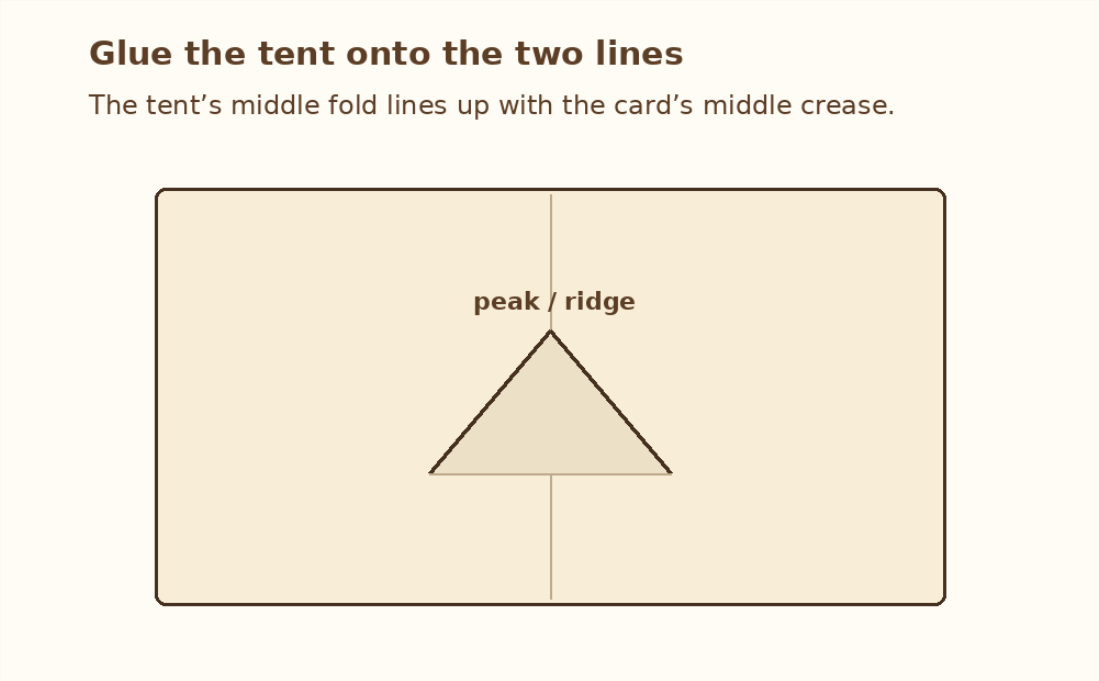

3. Mark the glue lines inside the card.

Open the card. Lightly pencil two lines that start from one point on the middle crease and go out left and right at about a 45-degree angle, like a shallow V on the page. These are only glue guides. You can erase them later.

4. Glue the tent in.

Put glue only on those two lines. Sit the tent so its middle fold lines up with the card’s middle crease, and each flap of the tent sits on one glue line. Press gently and let it dry.

Card one — Mr. Pepo, stand him up

5. Cut out Mr. Pepo and stand him on the peak.

Print or draw Mr. Pepo and cut him out. Leave a small tab of paper under his boots. Glue only that tab onto the top ridge of the tent, so he stands straight up. Do not glue him onto a sloping side.

6. Test it.

Let the glue dry. Close the card gently, then open it. Mr. Pepo should pop up and stand straight.

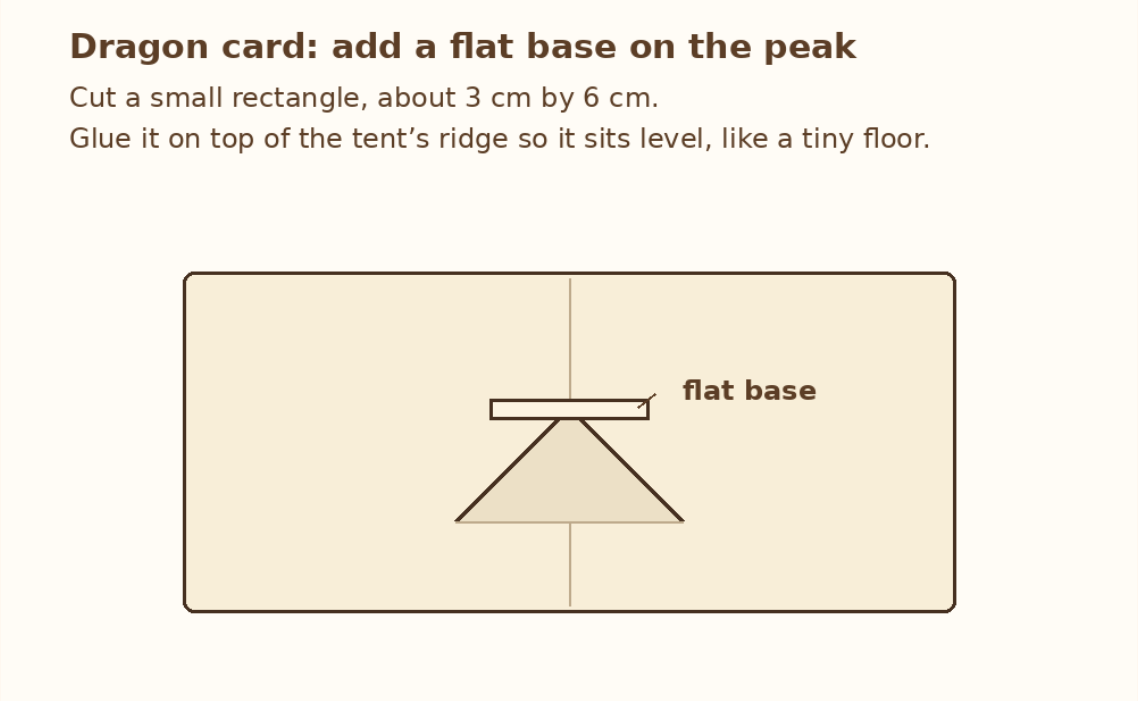

Card two — the dragon

This card uses the same tent. The difference is a small flat base on the peak, so the dragon has a level floor to stand on. Sit him in the centre of that base. That is what made him stand up straight in our test, after the first version leaned.

1. Make the card and the tent exactly as you did for Mr. Pepo (steps 1 to 4).
2. Cut a flat base.

   Cut a small rectangle of cardstock, about 3 cm by 6 cm.
3. Glue the base on the peak.

   Glue that rectangle on top of the tent’s ridge so it sits level, like a tiny floor. It should be centred on the tent, not sliding down one side.

Card two — the dragon, continued

4. Stand the dragon in the middle.

Print or draw the dragon and cut him out. Glue his feet to the centre of the flat base so he stands straight up, the same way Mr. Pepo stands on the peak. Do not glue him onto a sloping wall of the tent.

5. Test it.

Let it dry, then close and open the card. The dragon should pop up standing straight, not leaning. If he leans, he is still attached to a slope — lift him off and sit him back on the flat base.

This dragon is our own friendly green design, with a cream belly and small wings. You can colour him however you like.

Card three — Luna

Luna is Pepo Studios' cream-and-white robot friend, with a black visor and grey joints. Her card uses the same tent plus a flat base as the dragon, so she stands level — not on a slope. You may add a small star beside her on the base if you like.

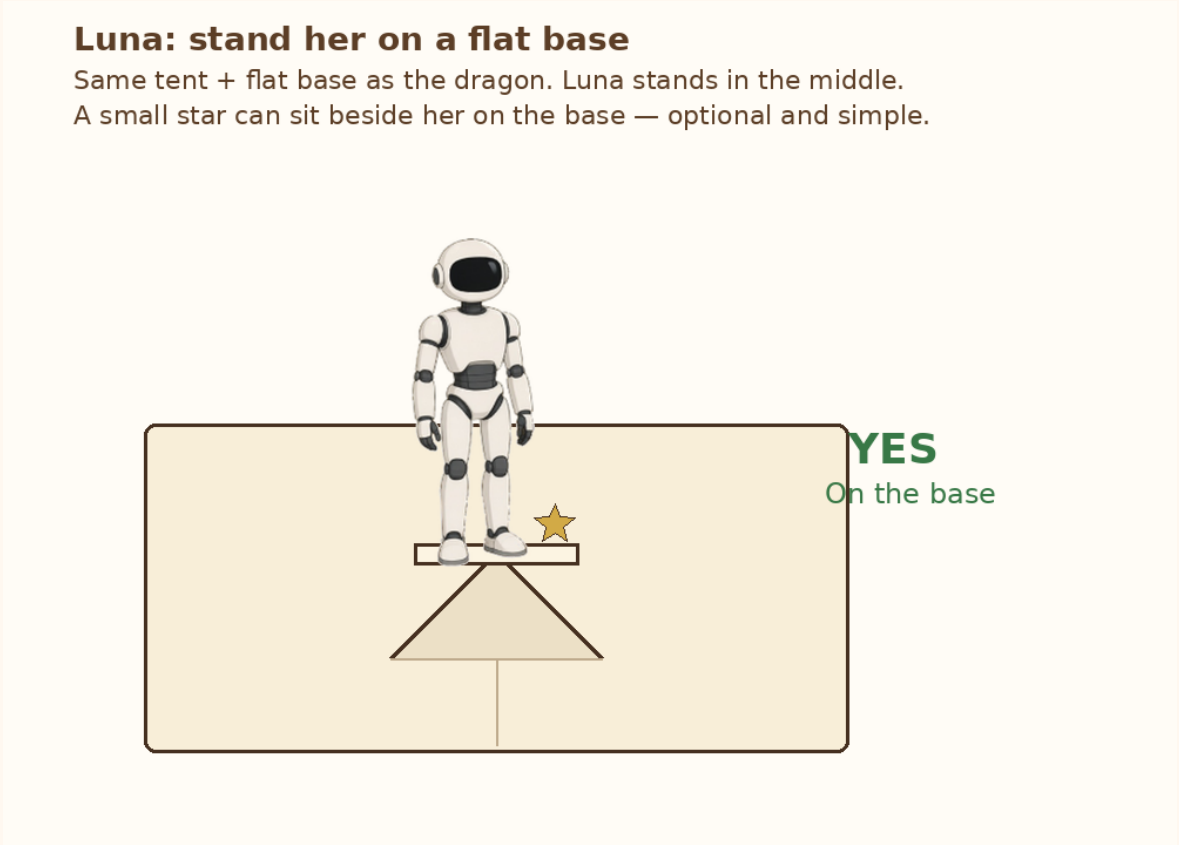

1. Make the card, the tent, and the flat base exactly as you did for the dragon (Mr. Pepo steps 1–4, then dragon steps 2–3). Flat base about 3 cm by 6 cm, centred on the tent ridge.

2. Cut out Luna.

   Print or draw Luna and cut her out carefully around her head, arms, and feet. Leave a small tab of paper under her feet for glue.

3. Stand her in the middle of the flat base.

   Glue only the tab under her feet to the centre of the flat base so she stands straight up. Do not glue her onto a sloping wall of the tent.

Card three — Luna, continued

4. Optional star.

Cut a small star from yellow or gold paper (or draw one on card and cut it out). Glue it next to Luna’s feet on the flat base. Keep it on the base — not on a slope.

Optional: a tiny star on the base

Cut a small star from yellow or gold paper, or draw one.
Glue it next to Luna’s feet on the flat base — not on a slope.

5. Test it.

Let everything dry. Close and open the card. Luna should pop up standing straight, with her star beside her if you added one.

Luna’s look: cream or white body, black visor across her face, grey joints at the shoulders, elbows, hips, and knees. Keep her simple and friendly.

Card four — Sakura

Sakura is Pepo Studios' black Labrador. This is a surprise-style card: she sits tall on the peak of the same V-fold tent as Mr. Pepo, and when you open the card she pops up to say hello. Stand her on the peak (or on a flat base if you prefer) — never on a sloping wall.

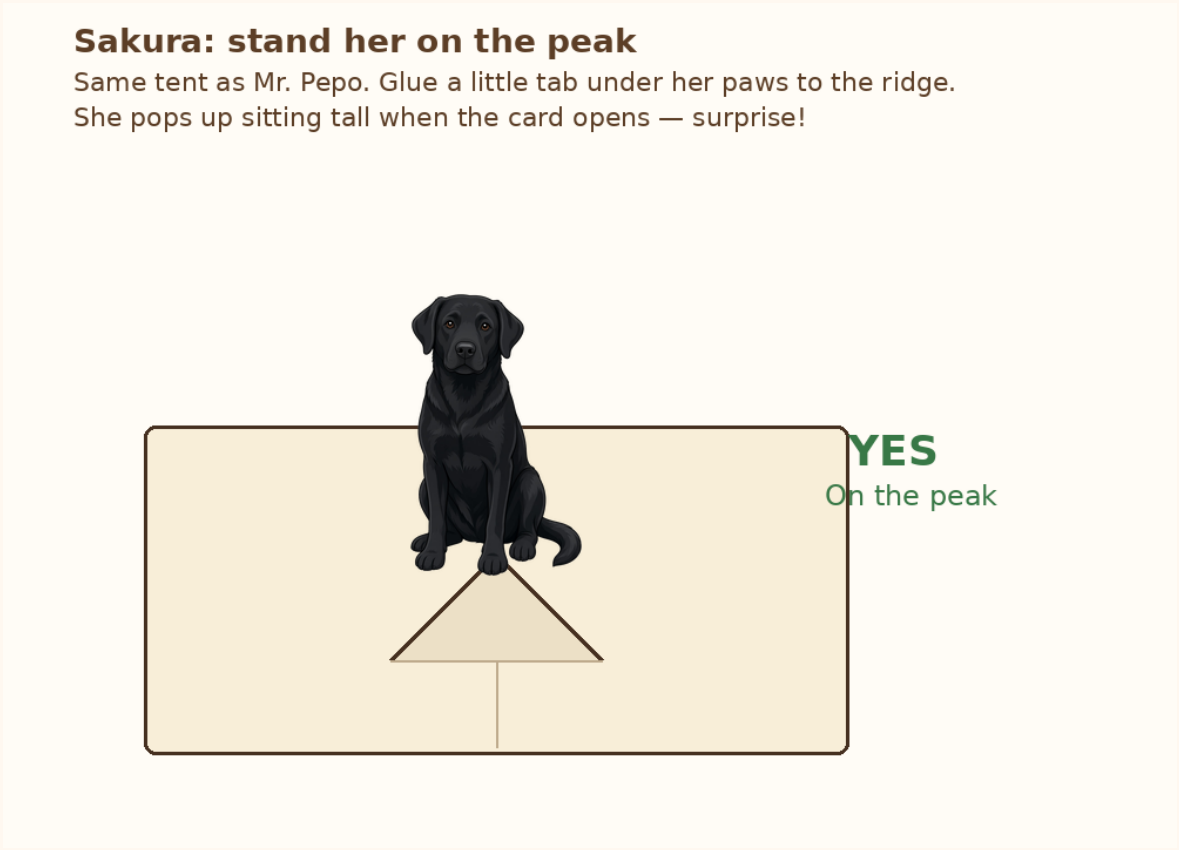

1. Make the card and the tent exactly as you did for Mr. Pepo (steps 1 to 4). Tent about 8 cm by 10 cm, glued on the two ~45-degree lines from the centre crease.

2. Cut out Sakura.

   Print or draw Sakura sitting, and cut her out. Leave a small tab of paper under her front paws for glue.

3. Stand her on the peak.

   Glue only that tab onto the top ridge of the tent so she sits straight up. If you want extra steadiness, use the dragon's flat base (3 cm by 6 cm) on the ridge and glue her paws to the middle of that base instead.

4. Test it.

   Let it dry. Close and open the card. Sakura should pop up sitting tall — a happy surprise.

Sakura's look: black Labrador, sitting, warm brown eyes, friendly face. Keep her simple so she is easy to cut.

That’s it — go make them

You now have four original Pepo Studios pop-up cards: Mr. Pepo on the peak, the dragon on a flat base, Luna on a flat base with an optional star, and Sakura popping up on the peak. Print this booklet, cut, glue, and share.

This how-to is a free gift from Pepo Studios. Print it. Make the cards. Give them to people you love. Mr. Pepo can make everything he needs — and he made this for you.

Find more at pepostudios.au · All designs and steps original to Pepo Studios.