A note from Peter

I came to Australia from Slovakia. I'm a builder and a dad to Sakura, and I made Mr. Pepo, the light-bulb inventor, with his robot Luna and his dog Sakura.

My mind works differently. I call that a mental ability, not a disability. For years, forms, letters, bills and systems stopped me. I thought I was the problem. With the right help, I started building books, videos, a shop and a website.

I made this journal for grown-ups like me: to manage energy and life admin, notice what works, and stop judging ourselves by rules made for other minds. There are no wrong answers.

How to use this journal

- Print the daily page as many times as you like.
- A few words is enough. Ticks count too.
- Missed a day? Just start again. No catching up needed.
- Bring the workplace page to a manager, doctor or support worker.

About me

My name:

What my brain is great at:

What has always been hard for me:

What helps me (people, tools, places, routines):

My kind of mind:

ADHD, autism, both, something else, or not sure yet

What I wish I had known about myself earlier:

Daily page

Print this page again for each new day.

Date:

My energy today:

◯ low ◯ okay ◯ high

My focus today:

◯ scattered ◯ steady ◯ hyperfocus

Sensory load (noise, light, people, screens):

My top three things today (only three):

Body check:

◯ I ate something ◯ I drank water

◯ I moved my body ◯ I got outside

Ideas that popped up (park them here):

One win, however small:

One hard moment, and what helped:

Tomorrow's one small step:

Life admin without the overwhelm

Bills, forms, appointments and calls. Write it down so your brain can let it go.

The one I'll do first (the smallest step):

Who could help me with the hard ones:

Weekly look back

What worked for me this week:

Where my energy went:

What I learned about how my brain works:

One thing I'd like to try next week:

Work and the way I work best

For your own planning, or to share with a manager or support worker.

Tasks where my mind shines:

Things at work that drain me:

Changes that would help me do my best work:

quiet space, written instructions, flexible hours, breaks, headphones, clear deadlines

How I'd like to ask for them:

Strengths I bring to a team:

My story, in my words

For when you want to share your story with family, work, or even radio and TV.

What I want people to understand about minds like mine:

A moment I'm proud of:

What helped me most, so it can help someone else:

What I'd change in the system if I could:

Free space

Draw, map your ideas, or write whatever your mind needs.
