A note from Peter

I come from Slovakia, and I live in Australia now. I'm a dad to Sakura, and I made Mr. Pepo, the light-bulb inventor, with his robot Luna and his dog Sakura.

My mind works differently. I call that a mental ability, not a disability. School was not always easy for me. Homework piled up, playgrounds were loud, and making friends felt like a puzzle with missing pieces.

This journal helps you keep track of homework, plan your breaks, and think about friendships, one day at a time. Bring it to school, or fill it in at home. There are no wrong answers.

Friendships

What makes a good friend:

Friends I have, or people I'd like to get to know:

Things I like doing with others:

Ways I can join in:

- ◯ Ask "Can I play too?"
- ◯ Ask a question about their game
- ◯ Join a lunchtime club
- ◯ Share something I'm into
- ◯ Sit nearby first
- ◯ Ask a teacher to help

When a friendship gets tricky, I can:

My break plan

Show this to your teacher.

Signs I need a break (how my body and brain feel):

Where I can go:

How I can ask without words (a card, a sign, a signal):

What I do on my break:

How long it takes me to feel ready again:

What helps me come back to class:

What my teacher can do to help:

Weekly look back

What went well at school this week:

Homework I finished, and what is still to do:

Friends or adults who helped me:

One thing I want to try next week:

Free space

Draw, map your ideas, or write whatever your mind needs.
